In addition to distributing some of the produce from our own production, we also import and distribute produce from other exporters in order to meet the increasing demands for fruits and vegetables.

